

He's jumping in feet first

Trish Bowman | 11th Jul 2013 11:25 AM

Stamp your Feet Operator Renton Bishopric is thrilled to be a part of the homemade expo coming to Rockhampton.

Contributed

THE owner of Capricorn Coast small business Stamp Your Feet plans to jump into the Handmade Expo feet first this Saturday at Rockhampton Showgrounds.

Stamp Your Feet owner /operator Renton Bishopric said the expo would be a fabulous opportunity to showcase all the wonderful handmade, homebaked and handcrafted products available in central Queensland.

Renton's own business concept came from an incident about many years ago when his father, well-known Byfield potter Steve Bishopric, made an impression of Renton's feet soon after his birth.

The idea grew to become decided to celebrate Renton's birth by making an impression of baby Renton's feet and the idea grew to become a successful business.

"I started the business in 2009 with product testing and an original website to establish market demand and refine the product," Renton said.

"I already offer market stalls at Fig Tree Creek markets in Yeppoon, sell online through my website and have products at four different locations on the New South Wales coast.

"The expo will allow me and many other stallholders to take our products to a larger audience.

The focus is on shopping locally and will support local arts and craftspeople who offer a huge range of products that cater to all tastes."Renton said in today's throwaway society, handcrafted and homemade goods were an ideal way to shop locally while purchasing unique, quality products. that are unique an individual."This is an ideal way to support our local economy along with local producers, artists, small businesses and those creating the many other fabulously unique items that make up the Handmade Expo," Renton said.The Handmade Expo will run every second Saturday of the month at the Rockhampton Showgrounds.For more information email rockhampton@thehandmadeexpo.com.au.

Renton BishopricThis is an ideal way to support our local economy along with local producers, artists, small businesses and those creating other fabulously unique items...

© Capricornia Newspapers Pty Ltd 2013. Unauthorised reproduction is prohibited under the laws of Australia and by international treaty.